Honoring Stanley Eng
ASIA TOWN COMMUNITY PILLAR & SERVANT LEADER

Stanley Eng was one of the pillars of the region’s Asian American community. A modest, soft-spoken man, he took a quiet approach to change that fit his community’s personality. He founded and led several organizations such as the Cleveland Chinese Senior Citizens Association but was best known for his work on behalf of the poor and elderly residents of Cleveland’s Chinatown (now AsiaTown).

Some of his greatest contributions to the neighborhood include spearheading efforts to provide much needed housing for elderly Chinese Americans that resulted in the Asian Evergreen Apartments. Launching a meal program serving over 50 seniors a day at Li Wah, founding the Chinese Newcomers Service Center and teaching English classes at the Payne Ave. Cleveland Chinese Christian Church where he was a member and volunteer for over 35 years.

Thanks to Ward 7 Councilman Basheer Jones, the AsiaTown Advisory Committee is pleased to share that the legacy of Mr. Eng will be honored posthumously through the dedication of a street in his name later this year. Because of Mr. Eng, many lives in Cleveland’s AsiaTown have been forever impacted and the community is pleased to honor him.

ASIA TOWN BLADE SIGNS
Be on the lookout for new street signs on Payne and Superior Avenues in AsiaTown. The signs feature six different Asian languages represented by the residents and businesses in the AsiaTown neighborhood and Northeast Ohio more broadly. Can you spot all six languages while you’re here at the Festival?

The signage design was created by artist Julie Kuo and selected by AsiaTown residents. This design draws from the repeating shapes and borders found in Asian textiles, knots, and other ornamental designs. Red and gold are prominent colors used in many Asian cultures, but it is worth noting that the meaning shifts from country to country. Residents also like that the design looks like fish scales, representing good fortune and luck – not to mention our connection to Lake Erie.

Many thanks to Councilman Basheer Jones, Commissioner Rob Maness and the Division of Traffic Engineering Sign Shop, Cleveland Planning Commission ASIA Inc., Cleveland Asian Festival, AsiaTown Advisory Committee, residents and community members for your support of this project. This project was supported by MidTown Cleveland, Inc. and St. Clair Superior Development Corporation.

Origins of Asian Pacific American Heritage Month

A national celebration established in 1977 with the participation of civil rights organizations such as the Japanese American Citizens League and Organization of Chinese Americans.

May is Asian Pacific American (APA) Heritage Month—a celebration of Asians and Pacific Islanders in the United States. Much like Black History and Women’s History celebrations, APA Heritage Month originated in a congressional bill.

Congressional Bills Establish Celebration

In June 1977, Representatives Frank Horton of New York and Norman Y. Mineta of California introduced a House resolution that called upon the president to proclaim the first ten days of May as Asian/Pacific Heritage Week. The following month, senators Daniel Inouye and Spark Matsunaga introduced a similar bill in the Senate. Both were passed.

On October 5, 1978, President Jimmy Carter signed a Joint Resolution designating the annual celebration.

APA Becomes Month-long Celebration

In May 1990, the holiday was expanded further when President George H. W. Bush designated May to be Asian Pacific American Heritage Month. May was chosen to commemorate the immigration of the first Japanese to the United States on May 7, 1843, and to mark the anniversary of the completion of the transcontinental railroad on May 10, 1869. The majority of the workers who laid the tracks were Chinese immigrants.

Asian Pacific American Heritage Month is celebrated with community festivals, government-sponsored activities, and educational activities for students. This year’s theme is “Lighting the Past, Present, and Future.”

Asian-American History:

From Chinese laborers in the 1800s to millions of U.S. citizens today

by David Johnson

When they first arrived in the United States, Asian (usually Chinese) immigrants were welcomed, or at least tolerated. After the California gold rush brought thousands of Chinese to California, however, Asian immigrants faced restrictive laws and occasional violence.

In the late 1800s Chinese, and eventually other Asians, were excluded from citizenship. These laws were repealed during World War II, followed by further immigration-law changes, making it easier for Asians to enter the United States.

Today, Asian immigrants have a high rate of assimilation and participation in the American mosaic.

Gold Rush Boom

The Chinese were the first Asians to arrive in large numbers. By the 1830s Chinese were selling goods in New York City and toiling in Hawaiian sugarcane fields.

Gold was discovered in California in 1848, eventually attracting thousands of Chinese miners and contract laborers. In 1850, just over 1,000 Asian immigrants entered the U.S., but ten years later, the figure had jumped to nearly 37,000, mostly Chinese.

Violent Protests

In some quarters, Chinese workers were welcomed. The Central Pacific Railroad recruited Chinese to work on the transcontinental railroad in 1865. Three years later the Chinese and the U.S. ratified the Burlingame Treaty which facilitated Chinese immigration.

However, many people feared being “overwhelmed” by the influx, which had swelled to nearly 65,000 in 1870, and over 107,000 in 1880. Some cities passed laws against Chinese and other Asians, often referred to as “Mongolians.” Anti-Chinese riots erupted in Chico, California, in 1877 and in Rock Springs, Wyoming, in 1885.

Japanese Arrive

Meanwhile, increasing contact with Japan prompted Japanese to move to Hawaii and California to work in agriculture. In 1869 the Wakamatsu Tea and Silk Colony was established in California.

Contact with the Philippines

In 1899, following the Spanish-American War, the Philippines came under U.S. control, prompting increased immigration. In 1902 the pensionado program, which allowed Filipinos to study in the U.S., was implemented.

Because most Filipinos are Roman Catholic, their integration into American life was somewhat easier than for other Asians. Though Filipinos faced the same prejudices as Chinese and Japanese laborers (as described in Carlos Bulosan’s book America is in the Heart), Filipinos arrived with English skills, making assimilation easier.

Japanese Internment
During World War II, more than 100,000 Americans of Japanese ancestry were placed in internment camps. Even though many did not speak Japanese or have close ties to Japan, they were nonetheless regarded as wartime threats. Although the U.S. was also at war with Germany and Italy, Americans with ancestors from those countries did not face internment.

In 1988 Congress passed a measure giving $20,000 to Japanese Americans who had been interned during the war. President George H.W. Bush signed it the following year.

Increasing Numbers
Although Asian immigration increased steadily through much of the 20th century, the region still contributed fewer newcomers than Europe, Latin America, and North America.

The McCarran-Walter Act of 1952 eliminated race as a barrier to immigration, and in 1965 national quotas were ended, thus facilitating Asian immigration.

A More Diverse Group
In 1979 the United States and China resumed diplomatic relations, making immigration easier for Chinese. But, new arrivals came from other Asian countries as well, including India and Pakistan. And in 1975 following the Vietnam War, more than 130,000 refugees fleeing from the Communist governments of Vietnam, Cambodia, and Laos arrived on U.S. shores. Million of Asians arrived in subsequent years.
